NCWIT recognizes high school girls for their technology achievements via the NCWIT Award for Aspirations in Computing. By generating visibility for technical young women the award encourages continued interest, increases awareness of the IT gender gap, and emphasizes the importance of women's participation in computing.

NCWIT is the only national non-profit focused on women's participation in computing helping more than 1,100 organizations recruit, retain, and advance young women from K-12 and higher education by providing support, evidence, and action.

Sponsors recognize the need to nurture the IT workforce and benefit from interacting with future employees early to not only reinforce their interest in the profession but also to make them aware of their organization as a potential contributor.

All sponsors contribute to event expenses. We would provide coordination for job shadowing, internships, and site visits with some awardees. They can bring IT staff to the award event to interact with girls who want to join their workforce. Networking is available with all awardees after the award presentation.

Gold Sponsors $5000
A gold sponsor representative will assist announcing the awardees on stage. The Gold sponsor has a half-page ad space in the brochure and on the Aspirations WI Web site, <http://ncwit.org/awardwi>.

Silver Sponsors $2500
Silver sponsors have a quarter-page ad space in the brochure and on the Aspirations WI Web site.

Bronze Sponsors $1000
Bronze sponsors have a one-eighth-page ad space in the brochure and on the Aspirations WI Web site.

Swag Sponsors
All organizations and individuals can contribute any amount of funds and swag with company logos e.g. flash drives, gift certificates, t-shirts, backpacks, etc. Company logos will appear in the brochure and on the Aspirations WI Web page.
